Model Agencies send girls here before big swimwear shoots (Linda Evangelista is a devotee), actresses religiously book themselves in before shooting nude scenes, and Manhattanites who want fresher faces (but who shun the scalpel) are regulars in Tracie's appointment book. 'She's a former make-up artist who's developed this totally amazing way of doing facials and body treatments with electric currents,' says ardent fan and self-confessed 'beauty whore' Liv Tyler. 'I heard about people who went and didn't really believe them to begin with, but Tracie did half of my face first and the difference was amazing. It really sculpts. Just chisels everything and drains all the lymph nodes. It's fantastic!' But is it a one-week wonder? 'No,' insists Tracie's partner, Marius. 'If you come back regularly, skin just keeps getting better.' For those who can't afford the air fare, try Tracie's Firming Serum™, available at Harrods in April or by mail order from (001 212) 206 7315.
